-dim

(OBSOLETE—see instead: -dim) (fix) Suffix (CP): Goal case ("to X", "toward X"). Alternate form for use by speakers whose native language renders the distinction between -i- and -e- difficult for them to hear; without the alternate Goal suffix, for such speakers the Goal ("-di") would be all-but-indistinguishable from the Source ("-de") {SHE} See also: -di

(fix) Suffix (CP): Goal case ("to X"; "toward X"). Replaces "-di" and the alternate "-dim" in the expectation that dissimilating Goal from Source is useful and standardizing the once-alternate "-dim" will make Láadan more user-friendly for native speakers of all other languages {AB}

-din/-bin/-in

(fix) Suffix (various): "Process of." Gives thalin (to improve) from thal (be good); owabin (to heat) from owa (be warm); híyadin (shrink) from híya (be small). The default form of this suffix is -din. When it follows a consonant the "d" drops away, leaving -in. When it follows a vowel (or vowel pair) that occurs after "b" or "m" or "w," the "d" changes to "b," giving -bin. In all other environments, the default form, -din, is retained. {AB}

doroledim

(v) This word has no English equivalent whatsoever. Say you have an average woman. She has no control over her own life. She has little or nothing in the way of resources for being good to herself, even when it is necessary. She has family and animals and friends and associates that depend on her for sustenance of all kinds. She rarely has adequate sleep or rest; she has no time for herself, no space of her own, little or no money to buy things for herself, no opportunity to consider her own emotional needs. She is at the beck and call of others because she has these responsibilities and obligations and does not choose to (or cannot) abandon them. For such a woman, the one and only thing she is likely to have a little control over for indulging her own self is FOOD. When such a woman overeats, the verb for that is “doroledim.” (And then she feels guilty because there are women whose children are starving and who do not have even THAT option for self-indulgence....) {SHE}

I—ibi

-din/-bin/-in

(fix) Suffix (various): "Process of." Gives thalin (to improve) from thal (be good); owabin (to heat) from owa (be warm); híyadin (shrink) from híya (be small). The default form of this suffix is -din. When it follows a consonant the "d" drops away, leaving -in. When it follows a vowel (or vowel pair) that occurs after "b" or "m" or "w," the "d" changes to "b," giving -bin. In all other environments, the default form, -din, is retained. {AB}

LH—lhoólh

lh-, -lh-, -lh

(fix) Prefix, Suffix, Infix (any): the pejorative element "lh" can always be added to a word to give it a negative connotation, so long as it precedes or follows a vowel and does not violate the rules of the Láadan sound system by creating a forbidden cluster. The addition of "lh" need not create an actual new word; for example, "áwith" means "baby"--to use instead "lháwith" (or "áwithelh") means only something like "the darned baby" and is ordinarily a temporary addition. But it is very handy indeed. We are indebted to the Navajo language for this device. {SHE}

Shathul

(n) [sha (harmony) + thul (parent)] honored parent. Shathul has a vaguely Asian feel; if you've seen the movies "Flower Drum Song" or "The Good Earth" where the child, even into adulthood, reveres the parent (filial piety being a pillar of Chinese culture) and expresses this by addressing the parent (to the parent's face, which seems an odd usage in English) as "my father" or "my mother", it's that kind of thing. One would expect such a parent to have reared her/his child in such a way that s/he is held in high regard--for her/his wisdom, willingness to listen and help solve dilemmas, as well as the awareness of when to offer help or guidance and when to let the child learn her/his own lessons. Gender neutral term; to specify gender, add "-izh" (female; shathulizh = honored mother) or "-id" (male; shathulid = honored father) {SHE} See also: thul, Emath, Mathul

thash

(n) There is a species of pain or discomfort that we don't discuss. While it may be quite severe, it isn't life-threatening; it is chronic, it isn't treatable except possibly with palliatives. We don't discuss it because it's common to the experience of [people like us-- whether that's due to age, health status, or whatever] and those who aren't in that group don't understand and are apt to become tired of hearing us [whine/complain/moan/kvetch] about it. We also don't talk about it because it distresses those who care about us and there's nothing they can do to remedy it. Of course, degree markers would be used to distinguish between a twinge, or an ache, or a stabbing pain when I do that, etc. {AB}

wo-

(fix) Prefix (CP): Relativizer. Incorporates verb-as-adjective into noun phrase; much like an English "adjective + noun" sequence, as in "green tree" or "small child". You can take any sequence of verb and subject (remembering that "adjectives" are only ordinary verbs in Láadan) and put the marker "wo-" at the beginning of each one. "Beautiful woman" is thus "woháya wowith". This is very useful, but it is a bit different from English because it can only be used if you have just one verb. You cannot use this pattern to translate an English sequence like "little red brick wall". {SHE}
